PROMOTION AND RELEGATION

Football NSW has outlined the principles by which clubs will become eligible for promotion to the 2023 Men's and Women's Competitions at the conclusion of the 2022 Football season.

MEN'S COMPETITIONS

1st Grade Clubs highest in the ranking in the relevant Premiership standings will be eligible for promotion

Promotion between NPL NSW Men's and League One Men's:

- The Four (4) highest ranked 1st Grade clubs in League One Men's will be eligible for promotion to NPL NSW Men's;

Promotion between League One Men's and League Two Men's:

- The Eight (8) highest ranked 1st Grade clubs in League Two Men's will be eligible for promotion to League One Men's

Promotion between League Two Men's and League Three Men's:

- The Twelve (12) highest ranked 1st Grade clubs in League Three Men's will be eligible for promotion to League Two Men's.

WOMEN'S COMPETITIONS

Eligibility for promotion and relegation will be determined by use of Club Championship rankings as defined below:

U20s – Premiership points x 1 (points multiplier)

1st Grade – Premiership points x 4 (points multiplier)

The principles by which clubs will become eligible for promotion to the 2023 Competitions at the conclusion of the 2022 football season are as follows:

- The two (2) highest ranked clubs, based on Club Championship rankings at the conclusion of the 2022 Premiership season, will be eligible for promotion; and

There will be no relegation between NPL NSW Women's and League One Women's from 2022 to 2023 (subject to compliance with the Participation Agreement and relevant rules and regulations)
